

4 June 1962

STAT

Options to be incorporated in the Army [ ] Contract:

STATINTL

1. [ ] Stereo Comparator, as quoted to Army and identical to units delivered to NPIC.

STATINTL

2. [ ] Stereo Comparator as quoted, modified with new output circuits to feed a dataphone 202B, half duplex, with the following additional switches [ ] Fifteen (15), twelve (12) position rotary or slide switches, sixteen (16) push on push off back lit switches, and five (5) momentary contact switches. Contractor will not furnish the dataphones or printer.

STAT

STATINTL

3. [ ] Stereo Comparator with additional switches as outlined under option 2, [ ] gratings, blocks, and any other portion of the [ ] system to which their patent right apply, with option to buy the additional required electronics from another firm. Contractor will not furnish the dataphones or printer.

STATINTL

In addition, the following statements to be included covering the selection of the above options:

STATINTL

1. Contractor may proceed with fabrication of optical and mechanical components.

2. Contractor may not proceed with procurement of electronic read-out components until contracting officer advises in writing the selection of either options 1, 2, or 3 by technical representative.

3. Contracting officer must advise contractor of acceptance of either options 1, 2, or 3 fifteen working days after written notification of cost of each option by contractor.

4. It is understood that options 2 and 3 may require a price revision. If such revision is an increase, such funds will be allocated from Fiscal Year 63 funds.

Declass Review by NIMA/DOD